

VITALITY competition winner:

AgVita is pleased to announce the winner of the 'Where's AgVita been now?' competition for the Summer '14/15 edition of Vitality magazine. As always, we received a variety of correct and incorrect entries in the week following the newsletter. Sadly, no stories of personal embarrassment were supplied. The level of Google cheating is on the rise, we might modify the terms & conditions for next time (shame on you, Sam from WA....). It turns out the location was easier to pick than we had anticipated.

The picture of course was taken at The Big Strawberry in Koonoomoo, Victoria, just south of the Murray River near Tocumal.

A dishonourable mention goes to Charles in Cobram who no doubt stops here for a strawberry every week on his travels through the area.

The 'all big things must be in Queensland' award goes to Rebecca in Victoria who thought it was on the Sunshine Coast (it wasn't that big a strawberry!).

An honourable mention goes to past winner Rosie in Tasmania, who postulated that the photo was evidence of a plan by AgVita to steal the Big Strawberry and relocate it to a Strawberry patch in Tasmania (not sure what the cost to get that across on the Spirit would be...!)

Therefore the winner of this newsletter's main prize is..... Paul from South Australia. Well done Paul, you're entry was correct and sent very quickly. Your prize is coming in the mail soon, enjoy!

Well done to Paul, Rosie, Rebecca and all those who entered. Keep an eye out for our next competition, where the location will hopefully prove even more challenging.
